Third Annual RARE Health Equity Summit

Location and Dates TBD

The RARE Health Equity Summit was developed to better understand the persistent gaps that exist in the rare disease community for underrepresented and/or minoritized patient populations, including those who are still seeking a diagnosis or are unaffiliated with a disease-specific foundation.

Presented in partnership with the Rare Disease Diversity Coalition (RDDC), the RARE Health Equity Summit brings together stakeholders from the rare disease community to identify the challenges that disproportionately affect underrepresented populations and define collaborative efforts to address those inequities. We want to ensure that everyone has access to the same information, care, treatment and research programs regardless of their race, ethnicity, age, socioeconomic status, ability, gender identity, religion, geographic location, and/or linguistic barriers. Sessions may focus on shortening the diagnostic odyssey, reducing racial disparities in care, building more inclusive research programs, and addressing mental health challenges.

This event will provide attendees with strategic insights and tools to empower and equip them to address racial, ethnic, gender, socioeconomic, and other disparities. The outcomes of the RARE Health Equity Summit will help attendees advocate for more inclusion in the rare disease community, and will provide relevant resources and information to underrepresented and/or minoritized patients.
